office furniture simplified

Direct Supply's professional team will work to understand the vision you have for your office spaces and all the furniture in them. We can even visit your building to provide professional measurements and advice right there in your community. From there, we'll set up drawings and renderings to support your project vision, and then confirm details and make changes. You'll know from day one exactly what you'll be getting on the day of delivery.

Our team can also coordinate professional installation of your office furniture. These types of furniture often come in many pieces that are like putting together an intricate puzzle. Turn to Direct Supply to help solve this puzzle for you with ease. The installers will review the product punch list and the community floor plans in advance to ensure they are prepared for the day of delivery.
