

A photograph of a wicker sofa with patterned cushions and red pillows inside a brick archway. The sofa is positioned in the center of the frame, nestled within a large, arched opening made of red brick. The archway is supported by two stone pillars on either side. The background is a wall of red brick, and the floor is made of red tiles. The lighting is warm and natural, suggesting an outdoor or semi-outdoor setting. The overall mood is cozy and inviting.

5 SENIOR LIVING TRENDS

POST-COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic has made lasting changes on the Senior Living industry. Here are a few emerging senior housing trends we expect to hold steady once the pandemic has ended:

1 Concierge-Style Living

During health crises, a divide-and-conquer strategy for population health management can be an effective approach. We recommend developing multiple, smaller ecosystems throughout your community that include enhanced amenities to support them, like a smaller satellite dining and lounge space, or a room for virtual visits, telehealth and private fitness.

2 Building Systems

The pandemic has brought an urgency to create more healthy environments. One popular trend around building systems includes new Needlepoint Bipolar Ionization (NPBI™) technology, which has been shown to inactivate 99.9% of the virus that causes COVID-19 in just 30 minutes in lab tests.¹ This technology can be added to existing HVAC systems with no filters to put extra strain on your system.

3 Infection Prevention

Infection prevention protocols start with the entry experience for all staff and guests. Adding thermal temperature scanners to your entries can serve as the first line of defense.²

4 Circulation

To help promote social distancing, we recommend creating flexible amenities while still providing beautiful spaces. For example, in dining rooms, we can add dividers that help create intimacy and safety while still offering residents a desirable experience.

5 Wellness

Access to the outdoors, ample natural light and integrating organic elements help support innate feelings of wellness. Through strategic Senior Living interior design choices, we can help boost connectivity to the natural environment to benefit the health of everyone in your building.

For help implementing these trends in your community, visit directsupply.com/impressions or call 1-800-893-7222.

¹ Inactivation results based on sensitivity testing conducted by independent third-party testing laboratory using control chambers. Multiple data points are used to formulate performance validation statements. The technology is used in a wide range of applications across diverse environmental conditions. Results in non-lab environments will vary; clients should evaluate their individual application and environmental conditions when making an assessment regarding the technology's potential benefits. For all independent laboratory results, contact Direct Supply at IndoorAirQuality@Directs.com. The use of this technology is not intended to take the place of reasonable precautions to prevent the transmission of pathogens (including COVID-19). Comply with all applicable public health laws and guidelines as well as CDC guidance (<https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/prevent-getting-sick/prevention.html>).

² This is not a medical device. Statements regarding this temperature device have not been evaluated by the FDA. This temperature device should not be solely or primarily relied upon to diagnose or exclude a diagnosis of COVID-19, or any other disease or health condition. Elevated body temperature in the context of use should be confirmed with secondary evaluation methods.

divide & conquer

As your community begins to open up, consider how you can adapt common areas to facilitate socially distant gatherings. Whether it's spacing out small seating areas or adding a creative divider, like a credenza or drapery, there are innovative ways to help keep residents, staff and visitors safer.

We can help you find the right solutions for your community. Visit directsupply.com/solutions/safety/visitation-spaces to get started.

5 TIPS

FOR SENIOR-FRIENDLY LIBRARIES

As you reduce restrictions in your community, start increasing resident engagement in libraries with these senior-approved tips, developed by a resident committee.

- 1 Keep books at eye level for easier access.
- 2 Encourage residents to help fill the shelves with favorites from their own collections.
- 3 Skip the fluorescent lights. Use appropriate task lighting on bookshelves and near seating.
- 4 Include comfortable chairs to set the stage for enjoyable reading.
- 5 Use a mix of table sizes. Large reading tables allow residents to open a newspaper without bothering their neighbor, while small side tables provide a convenient place to set coffee.

When it comes to creating vibrant destinations in Senior Living, it's all about integrating the physical and social environment. People want to go somewhere that has the things they like, where they know the people there, where they can influence the environment around them. When you involve residents in the decision making, they will engage in the space because they feel ownership. People use the space because it's their space.

IS YOUR COMMUNITY TECH SAVVY?

From lower operating costs to better communication, boosting your data network infrastructure can help enhance your community. It allows you to incorporate innovative technology that offers a variety of benefits:

- 1 Enhance safety and security with ultra-secure electronic access control, video surveillance, thermal temperature scanners and hotel-inspired wireless door locks that can lower operating costs and simplify how people enter and exit your community.
- 2 Boost operations by switching to electronic charting to get a more comprehensive overview of a resident's medical history and reduce messy paper records.
- 3 Improve communication by using web-accessible technology platforms, like nurse call and real-time location systems, to wirelessly send critical alerts to connected devices.

Evaluating your care, safety and workflow needs can help you see how wireless and connected technology can improve how you operate while increasing your marketability. Enhancing your network and Wi-Fi opens the doors to new technologies that can help improve your community's safety and care operations.

HOW TO CREATE STANDOUT MEMORY CARE SPACES

With the demand for Memory Care communities on the rise, incorporating innovative design tricks will be key to supporting the needs of these residents.

- 1 Choose fabrics in lighter colorways and simple patterns. Dark colors, complex patterns and textured fabrics can all be distracting for Memory Care residents.
- 2 Incorporate innovative wayfinding materials. Consider using a unique color and texture for each wing of the community to help residents find their way.
- 3 Use modern wander management wearables. Fitness-tracker style devices are a sleek way to offer residents greater freedom without compromising safety.
- 4 Add personal décor outside of the resident's room. Including recognizable items from home can help the resident find their way and feel more comfortable.
- 5 Promote physical stimulation. Consider using rocking chairs that give residents a chance to move, which helps generate a calming effect, improve circulation and prevent pressure ulcers.
- 6 Appeal to residents' hobbies with dedicated activity zones. Incorporating space and furnishings that accommodate singalongs, crafts and exercise help promote choice, fun and socialization.

“flex space

Maximize your square footage by creating adaptable multipurpose areas. Large, flexible spaces are popular in Senior Living because they can accommodate everything from educational seminars, resident council meetings and church services to birthday parties, game nights and workout classes – once the pandemic ends. Choose flexible furnishings and technology that can help you adapt to social distancing protocols.
